

Adam Wurtzel, a nominee for the CMA Media Achievement award, has been captivated by television since before he could even speak. His early fascination with classics like "Card Sharks" and "Wheel of Fortune" led him to master the art of timer recording on a VCR at the tender age of 3, diligently capturing his favorite shows while still in preschool.

Today, Adam Wurtzel is a prominent figure in the world of television, making his mark both in front of and behind the camera. Starting his career in the vibrant landscape of New York City, he has honed his expertise in unscripted television. With credits as a Producer on hit game shows such as "25 Words or Less," "Pictionary," and "Celebrity Game Face," as well as involvement in groundbreaking reality programming like "The Celebrity Apprentice" and "Kitchen Nightmares," Wurtzel has established himself as a versatile force in the industry.

Since 2010, Adam has played a pivotal role in the production of "Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve with Ryan Seacrest," overseeing all live Times Square content featuring esteemed co-hosts such as Jenny McCarthy, Liza Koshy, and Rita Ora.

Blending his passion, expertise, and unbridled enthusiasm, Adam Wurtzel has seamlessly transitioned into on-air roles, serving as a correspondent for "25 Words or Less" and "The Early Show." Currently, audiences across America can catch him on the nationally syndicated "Nashville Insider," now in its 8th season, as well as hosting "Up 'n Adam" on The CW Charlotte's daily morning show "Rising" and commanding the stage as the host of "Hollywood's Greatest Game Shows."
